Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Book of the Horse: Thorough-Bred, Half-Bred, Cart-Bred, Saddle and Harness, British and Foreign, With Hints on Horsemanship; The Management of the Stable; Breeding, Breaking and Training for the Road, the Park, and the Field This is a New Edition, and something more. The first, issued in monthly parts, was completed in 1875. Ever since, the Author has been engaged in improving and revising it. The subjects have been re-arranged on a plan at once more practical and scientific. All matter of temporary and merely local interest has been cancelled; the object being to make the Book of the Horse a work of permanent value. Several chapters have been rewritten the others re-arranged and condensed. In this revision the Author has had the advantage of valuable communications from his readers, not only in this country, but in France, Austria, and Italy, South America, and Australia. He has availed himself of gems of horse lore to be found in the recent works of such travellers as Major Burnaby, Baker Pasha, Mrs. Burton. Paragraphs of interest have been quoted from the letters of the war correspondents of the Times and the Daily News. He has particularly to acknowledge his obligations to the Honourable Francis Lawley for his revision of the chapters on Race-horses and Racing, to Dr. Hurman of the Badminton Club, and Mr. Stewart Freeman of St. Martins Lane, for correcting and adding to the chapter on Four Horse Driving, and the details of Road Coaching. The late Mr. William Cooper, of Stoke Damerel, when judge at the Islington Horse Show, also gave him some valuable hints, and kindly promised to read the proofs of the...
